

METLIFECARE EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENT

Metlifecare has appointed a new General Manager Human Resources. Huma Houghton will join the company on 12 January 2017.

From her early career in the United Kingdom and Jersey to her emigration to New Zealand in 2003, Huma has shown a consistent track record of growth and performance in both HR functional leadership and driving business results.

Huma currently works as a management consultant specialising in executive coaching, designing and delivering transformational leadership development programmes, and consulting with senior leadership teams. Huma was previously the Executive General Manager Capability & Organisation Development for Z Energy. Over her five years at Z Energy Huma established and embedded the culture and environment to sustain a high performance organisation, winning multiple awards for her work.

CEO Glen Sowry commented: "Huma brings an exceptional track record of leading strategic people management and culture change backed up with an impressive delivery reputation. Huma's appointment underlines our commitment to the continued growth and development of Metlifecare's people and the organisation's increased focus on performance and service delivery and we are delighted to welcome her to the company".
